17th August 2020,
Deputy Mark Ward,
Dail Eireann,
Dublin 2.

PQ: 18884/20

To ask the Minister for Health his views on the appointment of a national director for mental health in the HSE (details supplied); when the examination will conclude; and if the new national director for mental health will report directly to the CEO of the HSE.

Dear Deputy Ward,

The Health Service Executive has been requested to reply directly to you in the context of the above Parliamentary Question, which you submitted to the Minister for Health for response. I have examined the matter and the following outlines the position.

A Vision for Change 2006 recommended that a National Mental Health Directorate be established under the leadership of a national director to prioritise the mental health agenda and to drive it centrally within the HSE. This was achieved with the appointment of the first HSE national director in 2013. As part of structural changes announced in 2016, a new national director of community health service operations subsumed the operational roles of the existing national directors for primary care, social care, health and wellbeing, and mental health. These changes enabled the existing national directors to work closely with the chief strategy and planning officer to plan the integration of acute care, primary care, social care, mental health and health and wellbeing. The changes introduced by the HSE were designed to enhance performance and management across the health service and to integrate HSE services to deliver the health priorities outlined in the Programme for Government.

The new mental health policy Sharing the Vision - A Mental Health Policy for Everyone (2020) acknowledges the ongoing need for a dedicated focus on mental health strategy, with national-level leadership, to give the required attention to operational issues and to maximise integration across care groups. Health Areas will operate on an integrated basis delivering services based upon population needs. Mental health services will no longer be seen as a separate service within a larger structure where integration and cohesion are aspired to but not always delivered. The model for delivery of care proposed suggests that mental health services should align to existing and emerging health structures to enable the provision of community health and social care services across primary care, social care, mental health, and health and wellbeing in a more coordinated and integrated way. Consequently, Mental Health Services will fully participate in the Sláintecare programme reforms and be at the centre of the new structures of healthcare delivery. The move to collaborative and cross boundary working in Community Health Networks (CHN), operating at lower population levels within Regional Health Areas, will encourage primary and secondary care to be aligned and delivered closer to the community (page 73).
