PQ 61618/21 - To ask the Minister for Health the outstanding applications for a primary medical certificate at present; and if a breakdown of those waiting will be provided in three month intervals (details supplied) in tabular form.

- Violet-Anne Wynne

Dear Deputy Wynne,

The Health Service Executive (HSE) has been requested to reply directly to you in the context of the above Parliamentary Question (PQ 61618/21) which you submitted to the Minister for Health for response.

Please note that this information is not available in the breakdown requested. The latest available data is at September 2021, at which point a total of 585 people were waiting to be assessed for a primary medical certificate. At the end of December 2020, a total of 1,689 people were waiting to be assessed for a primary medical certificate. The breakdown of the numbers waiting to be assessed by CHO area at September 2021 and December 2020 is shown in the attached Appendix 1.

Building upon the experience from earlier waves of the pandemic, Community Services developed a prioritisation framework to support local decisions made on service prioritisation. This approach ensures that services are focused on identifying and supporting patients who have the greatest need and enabling staff to be deployed where necessary to support these patients. Where services are curtailed or reduced, this is in line with clinical approval, a shared national position and with an appropriate risk assessment and communication with providers, service users and families.

There has been significant progress in addressing the backlog for assessments for primary medical certificates. The latest available data is at September 2021 and in the period from January to September 2021 there were 2,350 assessments carried out, compared to 1,273 in the full year 2020. The HSE is currently revising its service recovery and restoration plans taking account of the COVID pressure challenges presenting. Assessments for primary medical certificates are considered in that context and every option is being considered to address the backlog for assessments for primary medical certificates.

I trust this information is of assistance to you.

Yours sincerely,
