To ask the Minister for Health if an estimate has been carried out to determine the cost of reopening the emergency department at Nenagh Hospital; to produce any analysis of such a measure that may have been commissioned; and if he will make a statement on the matter. -Martin Browne

Dear Deputy Browne

The Health Service Executive has been requested to reply directly to you in the context of the above Parliamentary Question which you submitted to the Minister for Health for response.

I wish to advise that no such analysis has been conducted in relation to the potential costs of redesignating the status of Nenagh Hospital to provide for an Emergency Department.

Government policy titled 'Securing the Future of Smaller Hospitals: a Framework for Development', published in February 2013 has shaped the future of Nenagh, Ennis and St John's and reaffirmed the integral role these hospitals have to play in the future growth of healthcare in the Mid-West region: in the provision of ambulatory care, chronic disease management, day surgery, endoscopy, Injury Units, Medical Assessment Units and much more.

Among the key objectives of the reconfiguration programme, as set out in the (Teamwork/Horwath) consultants report, was the centralisation of acute and emergency medical and surgical services, including trauma, in UHL. The programme also provided for the centralisation and expansion of critical care capacity for the region in Limerick; an improved ambulance service for the region and, crucially, the development of appropriate services in the smaller hospitals (urgent care centres/injury units, medical assessment units, day surgery, radiology etc).

The aim of the reforms was to ensure that patient safety was improved across the region by delivering care in the right place and by the right teams. This required an upgrading of diagnostic, outpatient, endoscopy and day services in our model 2 hospitals.

I trust this clarifies the position, please contact me if you have any further queries.

Yours sincerely,

Ms. Sonya Cotter
