Live from the National Patient Safety Office Conference Dublin Castle

This unique QPS TalkTime comes directly from the National Patient Safety Office (NPSO) Conference 2022. The theme is “Working Together to Advance Patient Safety”, highlighting how collaboration and people are drivers of patient safety. We look forward to bringing our conversation with select speakers to people who won't be at the conference in person.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Maurice O'Donnell, Head of Patient Safety Legislation and Advocacy in the National Patient Safety Office (NPSO) of the Department of Health. Maurice previously worked in the Disability Unit of the Department and the Minister's Office and prior to this worked in the Department of Foreign Affairs.

Prof. Suzette Woodward, is a former paediatric intensive care nurse who has worked in the NHS for over 40 years with 20 years focusing on patient safety. She has more recently been an advisor to a variety of national and international bodies and a Board member at the National Patient Safety Agency and NHS Resolution.

Louise Loughlin, National Manager of the Patient Advocacy Service and National Advocacy Service for People with Disabilities (NAS). Louise has overseen the development and delivery of the Patient Advocacy Service since 2018. NAS was recently awarded a contract from the Department of Health to continue to operate the Patient Advocacy Service for a further 5 years, from October 2022 – October 2027.

Dr. Natasha Rafter, is a Specialist in Public Health Medicine and honorary Senior Research Fellow, RCSI & Dr. Siobhan McCarthy, Programme Director of the MSc Quality and Safety in Healthcare Management at RCSI. Both are Principle Investigators on the iCAARE study examining the effectiveness and implementation of After Action Review.
