Note:

Child protection is everyone's responsibility. Even if you do not work with children, adult based services play an important part in the identification and assessment of child protection and welfare concerns. Consideration of the impact of parental problems on a child or children should be a routine part of practice in adult as well as in children's services. Adults may also disclose abuse that took place during their childhood, which may need to be reported to Tusla.

If a child is at immediate risk and a Tusla Duty Social Worker cannot be contacted please contact An Garda Síochána without delay.
