The Acute Mental Health Unit is committed to reducing the number and duration of restraint episodes within the approved centre.

We have implemented our own Physical Restraint reporting booklets to capture and monitor adherence to the Physical Restraint Code of Practice.

The total number of physical restraints was down from 63 episodes in 2023 to 55 episodes in 2024.

A statement about the approved centre's compliance with the code of practice on the use of physical restraint

Mandatory training is provided to staff members who could potentially be involved in episodes of physical restraint.

A staff member of the same gender is present at all times during episodes of physical restraint.

The reason for, likely duration of and circumstances that would lead to the end of the episode of physical restraint are clearly communicated to the patient throughout.

A physical examination is carried out after each episode of physical restraint, with the patient's consent.

Vital signs are monitored after each episode of physical restraint.

One to one nursing support is offered after each episode of physical restraint.

The patient's Next of Kin is informed of each episode of physical restraint, with the patient's consent.

Statement on compliance with the rules governing seclusion, restraint & mechanical restraint for 2024

The Physical Restraint Reporting booklet is completed and signed by the treating consultant after each episode of physical restraint and the information is uploaded to the Mental Health Commission via CIS within 72 hours of the episode.

Each episode of physical restraint is audited by the multi-disciplinary team and discussed at the monthly Regulatory Compliance meeting.

A statement about the compliance with the approved centre's own reduction policy

An audit is carried out by the multi-disciplinary team for each episode of physical restraint.

The Reducing Restrictive Practice Committee meets quarterly to review the audit scores and discuss actions to ensure compliance with AMHU's policy on the use of physical restraint.

Each discipline is represented by a member of the committee.

The minutes and actions are circulated to each committee member after the quarterly reviews to take back to their teams.

The AMHU Code of Practice on the use of Physical Restraint has been updated following a recent inspection by the Mental Health Commission to reflect findings and recommendations by the Commission.

Statement on compliance with the rules governing seclusion, restraint & mechanical restraint for 2024

In 2024, there were two patients in need of cot sides which has now been discontinued. We now have a system of appropriate level beds in place to reduce the need for ongoing mechanical restraint.

We have implemented our own Mechanical Restraint reporting booklets to capture and monitor adherence to the Mechanical Restraint Code of Practice.

A statement about the approved centre's compliance with the rules governing the use of mechanical means of bodily restraint

6 monthly reports are uploaded to the Mental Health Commission via CIS for each episode of ongoing mechanical restraint if occurred.

A statement about the compliance with the approved centre's own reduction policy

The Reducing Restrictive Practice Committee meets quarterly to review the audit scores and discuss actions to ensure compliance with AMHU's policy on the use of physical restraint.

Each discipline is represented by a member of the committee.

The minutes and actions are circulated to each committee member after the quarterly reviews to take back to their teams.

Lesser restrictive methods have been identified and implemented to support patients in reducing the need for the use of mechanical restraint.
